Home and Neighborhood
Insights Your Prospects
and Clients Crave

Don't lose another lead or past customer again!

Why do the top 20 online real estate portals get 175 million unique visitors each month? A key draw is information about a homeowner's property and neighborhood—right at their fingertips.

National real estate portals know it's all about the homeowner.

It's no secret. Consumers love information about their homes and neighborhoods. It's where they live and raise their families. And it's also their #1 asset.

The big portals and online media companies provide home and surrounding neighborhood information on demand—it's one of the main reason millions of homeowners visit their sites. But how good is their data? Are these sites giving your prospects and clients the accurate home values and local market information they need to make good decisions? Chances are, you and your agents spend way too much time and energy correcting misperceptions gleaned from these sites.

Are you getting the call?

When local homeowners go looking for information on national real estate portals, are your agents getting the lead?

If you don't offer this data, you may be losing important leads.

The consumers in your farm—your prospects—are searching for insights about their homes and neighborhoods. And they are finding this information on national websites. But they are also finding the agents who paid to promote themselves, agents who probably don't work for you.

Simply put, because you can't offer the insights your local consumers crave, the big portals, headquartered perhaps thousands of miles away, can often shift your prospects away from you and toward a competitor.

With ePropertyWatch, this dynamic changes. With ePropertyWatch, your brokerage and agents sponsor an email and web service that delivers a professional, personalized data experience to prospects and past clients—including their home's valuation using CoreLogic's gold-standard Automated Valuation Model (AVM)*, surrounding listings, sales, foreclosures, auctions, CoreLogic HPI valuation forecast, mortgage information, nearby trends, forecast analytics, and much more. And it's 100% free for consumers. They pay nothing for this insight, and it's delivered to their inbox every month.

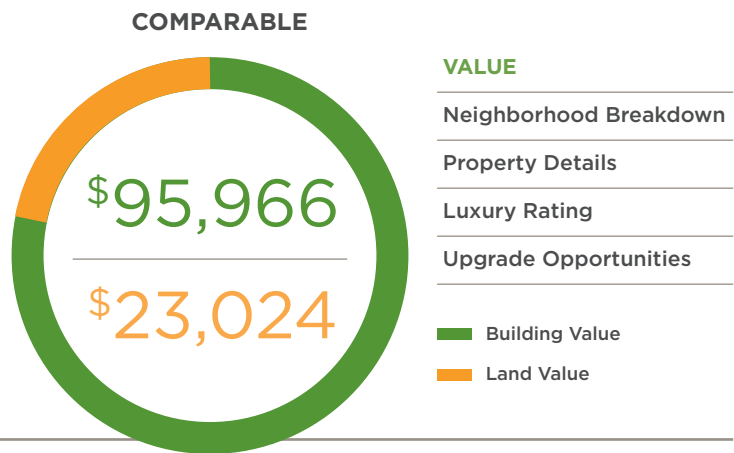

*CoreLogic is the chosen AVM provider of 18 of the top 20 U.S. mortgage lenders.

Why ePropertyWatch? Seeing is Believing.

It makes you the market expert

- ▶ ePropertyWatch delivers accurate, superior data
